Warming up

As we entered the spring season we became more busy with our church. We had a few travels with our nearby supporting churches, giving updates on our ministry. We will begin our furlough later this year, so pray for us as we prepare for that.

Deaf mini ladies retreat

We hosted our annual deaf mini ladies retreat in March, a half day retreat. We had a good number of deaf ladies who came from other states. Our guest speaker this year was Tawnie Kile, an interpreter from Bible Baptist Church in York, PA.

Family fellowship week

We went to our mission agency's annual meeting, family fellowship week, in North Carolina in April. The last time we went was four years ago, right before we started our church. It was a much needed break for us and our family. Sometimes in ministry you can feel like it drags you down on a spiritual and psychological level. It was a very good reminder on how much people care for us. We were more than refreshed coming back home.

New salvation!

During our monthly men's fellowship, we had a young deaf man come who also came once a couple of years ago. As I was giving out my devotion, he asked me to pray for him "to become saved before it's too late." I told him that I will speak with him afterwards. I mentioned about Chuck Norris' passing and shared his salvation testimony and that seemed to impact him. After the devotion finished, I brought him into my office and went through Romans Road with him. As we went through the verses together, his eyes opened up more and more. Finally, when I explain that he can become saved now by simply accepting Christ, he bowed his head and prayed. I prayed with him that God will hear His heart and that he truly called on the name of the Lord.

After he was done, he got up and was visibly emotional, trying to hold back tears. Everyone else was very thrilled when they learned he got saved. Please pray for him to grow, he hasn't come to our church services yet since, his name is Rob.

Sunday school and services

We continued our series on Christian habits, finishing in April. Then we moved on to the doctrine of salvation. Many of the people in our church are already saved but it is always good to understand how it works on a deeper level, which reinforces our assurance. Many of my sermons were on Easter, spiritual growth and on Christ's life. The church loves the new verse by verse series on the book of John during our third service.

Prayer Requests:

- For me to have strength
- For our people to be faithful to church and grow in the Lord
- For the deaf in and around Philadelphia to become saved.
